

The covid¹⁹ Diaries
... a series
3 days

by Madison
Davis
dedicated to Molly Donohue

4/19

I didn't wake up until 11:30 this morning.
(not abnormal ... anymore) Oh well.

Not much on the agenda besides a disorganized mental list of things
I might maybe do if I feel like it.

Stay tuned!

For the first time in a few weeks I actually accomplished — dead pen

/checked some things off my list. & started reading a new book. This is as exciting as it gets today folks!

4/22

Talked to my grandpa on facetime! He had a doctors appointment in Salt Lake to see if he could get portable oxygen ... I actually think he called it an oxygen compressor. Either way ... — he'd be able to leave home for more than a couple of hours. ~~He~~ Hope he gets it! This makes me think I should call my gma.

4/23 Went on my first run today's I don't even remember the last time I've done that. Something is happening to my brain!!
... Balanced it out with some Adventure Time.

4/24

'The Big Short' !!! So good...
I don't know if you've ever watched it before — but it makes me wonder... the big ~~ΣDoom~~ ~~Σ~~ question!! (as seen online)

are we going to end up in economic crises ~~Σ~~ #Quarantine CONCERNS

4/25

I think my favorite part about being stuck at home is having time with my friends. When our lives are so busy I miss them. Right now we get to watch movies
and cook breakfast and talk about things we don't usually!
It's been really fun.
I love my friends.