Spring Semester 2020 Extra Credit

We are living in a surreal time for most of us who have never experienced this sort of disruption to our daily lives. It is something that many in the past have documented as they lived through it.

Since this is a writing course, I would like to encourage you to document your thoughts and feelings as you work your way through the challenges in your life and how this pandemic has disrupted what you do and what you know. It’s certainly given us a time for reflection of what we consider to be most important in our lives, and even what we take for granted.

I don’t know how to put a value on this assignment. I think depending on the depth, length, and the amount of fine-line editing that you do, that it could be worth as much as a major assignment in our course. That could be a discussion you and I have when you turn this piece in. You have until May 4th, at 11 PM, to construct a narrative of your experience in living through this pandemic.