DO YOU HAVE GRAD SCHOOL ON YOUR MIND?

Is grad school in your future? Planning on taking the GRE, LSAT, MCAT or GMAT? Don’t want to spend a lot of money on test preparation materials? Then check out the Testing and Education Reference Center.

For each test (GRE, LSAT, MCAT and GMAT), the Testing and Education Reference Center provides access to Peterson’s study manuals and two or three interactive practice tests.

In addition, there is a Graduate Search section which allows you to search for graduate schools in your field of study. Results contain information about the program, research facilities, financial aid, tuition, cost of living, the application process and more.

Not sure if you can afford grad school? The TERC also contains sections on how to locate scholarships or even get recruited into a graduate program.

This database is available from the alphabetical list on our database page which can be found at www.lib.montana.edu/resources.
